The blow was angled and low to the water. I saw the body of the whale with the squared head, dark grey body, and knuckles past the small triangular dorsal. The animals were probably 8 m in length. This individual was traveling in a different direction (parallel with vessel in opposite direction) than the other sperm whales so I made it a different sighting. All were traveling directly away from the vessel. I saw two traveling close together (maybe 2 to 3 m apart) and the other was about 10 m away but traveling in the same direction. Dan thought he might have seen a 4th whale, but I only saw the three. They all had low puffy blows that veered to the left.
